End the age of Empire ... Now!

Summary:
Just about all the major problems we face have been caused by politicians and governments that pretend to care about their populations. What seem like stupid and irrational decisions can only be understood when we realise that they are made to serve the interests of the Empire. The "Kings" and "Queens" of a large portion of the world - the rulers - the 0.1% - the elite. Call them whatever you like.

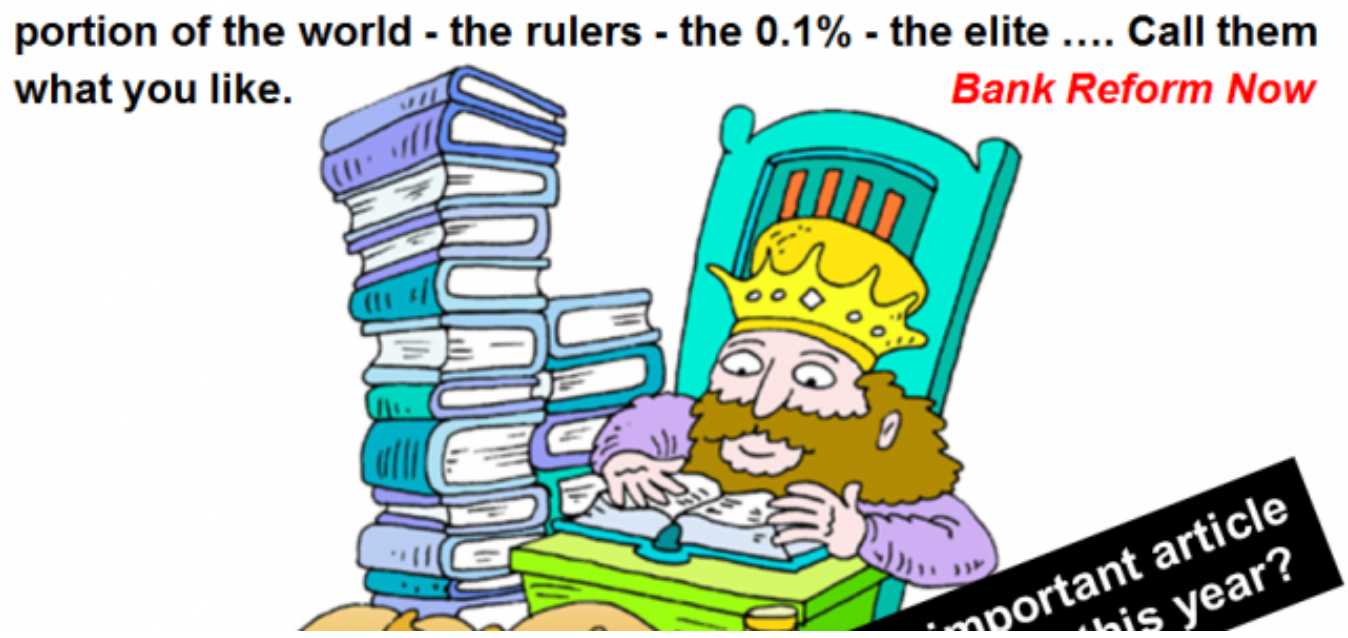

Here we expose the information the rulers don't want their subjects to know. We also show what needs to be done to secure your country's freedom from the age of exploitation. It's time.

Are you ready and willing to insist that your politicians serve the interests of you and your loved ones?

End The Empire To Secure Freedom, Rights, Justice & Peace

© Bank Reform Now™ - Australian Non Profit Organsiation - campaigning to put a stop to predatory, unconscionable banking practices.

It’s not going to get better – the rulers will own everything. You will be miserable - and they don’t care. There is only one way out. Do you have what it takes to seize your freedom? You will have to take it. No-one will give you freedom.

All the major problems and crises we face right now and into the future have been directly caused by politicians and the governments they work in. Unless they are stupid, they are following a deliberate plan aiming to cause hardship and chaos to further concentrate power and wealth in the elite’s hands.

They fight inflation by printing more money! Get real! This is deliberate sabotage! Maybe even treason! Major reforms must be demanded right now by a large number of Australians.

What’s going on - both in Australia and around the world?

Well, the main problem is that years of media propaganda and poor education has meant that people have no idea what living in freedom with fundamental rights means. They think it's “normal” to be ruled. If you want freedom, then you need to know what you’re up against. Let’s be blunt - you and your family are subjects [a member of a State other than its ruler]!

The rulers are the same as they have been for hundreds and hundreds of years – powerful and wealthy families with connections spanning royalty, banking, and religions.

The world conflicts we have endured – WW1 and 2 as well as the post WW2 geopolitical machinations are all about Empire. Much of the West’s populations are subjects of the City of London / Washington / Vatican axis. Right now, this empire seems to be escalating its conflicts with China, Russia and other nations not wanting to be controlled, exploited, and fleeced by the “Western” axis.

The USA is the military arm of the axis, hence its post WW2 interference in many countries that weren’t co-operative in serving up their resources and people for exploitation. War is profitable and the rulers have made sure that many corners of the world remain in some form of perpetual conflict.

As subjects you have minimal meaningful control over your life. The rulers use debt, taxes and bureaucracy to torment, control, and fleece you. At the same time, they work hard to keep you busy, distracted, divided, confused, ignorant and fearful.

In simple terms - living in freedom means you can do whatever you want as long as you don’t harm others while respecting the right of others to live the way they want to.

This means that the government’s role is not to interfere in your life. Its role is to serve the interests of the people and the country according to laws and norms which support the people. Simple laws are required to help prevent people, companies and various entities initiating the use of force, fraud or coercion in their dealings with each other.

It is worth noting that when corporations abuse their clients people must have access to justice. In 2019 the ALP promised that customers of Financial Service Providers (FSP) would get help. This analysis of the promises also proposes an FSP funded Law Force to make justice timely and affordable - pdf from Michael Sanderson >> here.

Political and economic structures should function to enable citizens to relatively easily look after their needs while living in civilised freedom. A society such as this doesn’t enable the people’s resources, time, and wealth to be easily siphoned off to foreign powers and interests.

Let’s look at a few issues and see how the government’s actions are opposing the people’s interests.

COVID-19 –

It is almost certain that the virus was created in a laboratory that was funded by the USA – a government decision in keeping with known research by all the world’s major military powers into biological weapons. Even if the virus was not deliberately released the subsequent crisis was not going to be wasted by the rulers. Draconian infringements on people's freedoms and rights were imposed in many countries. It was used to accelerate moves towards digital currencies and identities. Governments treated citizens like livestock. Only "subjects" can be monitored, coerced, and controlled in this manner. Freedom of speech was just one of the core rights that were denigrated and debauched. The West behaved in the same authoritarian way that they hypocritically criticise Russia and China for.

Russia / Ukraine war –

BRN feels that war should be considered a crime against humanity. No politician should be able to authorise the killing of people under any circumstances but until that becomes widely accepted as self-evident in our quest to live in civilised freedom, we will be sickened by the horrors we are seeing in Europe right now. The USA and NATO knew that they were prodding Putin with NATO's expansion around Russia. Military facilities were being funded and built by NATO in Ukraine. Political and government actions caused this tragedy. Without this U.S. action Putin would not have had any sort of reason or excuse to invade. It is a crime that should never have happened.

Who are the sanctions on Russia hurting? The West! High oil prices and fuel shortages. Food shortages - and price rises - with the very high risk of mass starvation in some regions of the world.

Who's getting richer? Well, the elite of course (thanks in part to their stake in the arms industry) but some collateral beneficiaries happen to be the Saudis, Iran and Venezuela. Russia is still able to sell oil, wheat and gas to the many countries who did not feel that the boycott was warranted. Commodity costs such as wheat, nickel, potash, and fertilisers have gone up dramatically, with nickel increasing up to 250%. The bulk of the world's populations are suffering one way or another due to this madness.

Refugees –

Most people want to live in a safe environment where they can access their needs in a reasonable manner. Geopolitical bastardry and games of empire result in war, instability and life-threatening danger. Most of the post war refugee flows from Asia, the Middle East and South America have been caused by foreign interference in these nations. In addition, in many situations "economic hitmen" team up with a target nation's corrupt leadership to exploit and steal from the people of the nation. Also, worth noting if a nation's leadership is not corruptible enough, they may still cave when their lives or their family's lives are threatened. If that doesn't do the trick a proxy war or direct invasion will likely be on the cards.

This is not fantasyland conspiracy material. Look up the government and NGO alphabet soup crew such as CIA, FBI, MI5, CFR, ASIO, WEF, BIS, NATO. Look up operations: Paperclip, MK-ULTRA, Gladio, Northwoods, ECHELON, Mockingbird, COINTELPRO. If the Americans and Vatican can rescue and resettle NAZI war criminals and order the murder of their own citizens, they will do anything to maintain the Empire.

Another angle to this is the function of the IMF and World Bank. The rulers of the West are now bleating about China getting nations into debt as a means of control. This is exactly how the West has operated. If the West had behaved differently post WW2 there would be no threat from China, Russia, or any other nation. The competition between nations should be on how maximum freedom and prosperity can be attained by the people in those nations. Clearly, investing in high quality infrastructure and services is a key factor. This can be done without an ulterior motive of extracting a people's wealth and freedom - often in a brutal manner.

Taxation –

Many people still believe that governments must tax incomes and consumption to enable the provision of various services to the people they so deeply care about. Australia is one of the wealthiest countries in the world. With only 25 million people we should have it all – cheap energy, world class health and education, top class roads – all with minimal need for taxation. Why is it a struggle to achieve our true potential? We're being robbed by the "rules based international order" imposed by our rulers.

In 1913 America the establishment of the privately owned US Federal Reserve enabled the European financial powers to take over monetary policy. At the same time the Income Tax was introduced. The same system runs in most nations. The top of the tree is the Bank for International Settlements (BIS) started in 1930. Borrow from the banking cartel – tax the people to transfer the nation's wealth via interest payments to the elite. Yes – it's a con job on top of a Ponzi scheme built on a house of cards. Useful idiots in government allow and enable this. Australia has the cheapest politicians money can buy. If political donations don't do the job, there can also be the promise of lucrative post political retirement board memberships.

To get rid of a punitive taxation regimen all that is required is ending the racket with a Sovereign Monetary system. First step is the establishment of a National Postal Savings Bank. The power to create credit must be removed from the private banking cartel. Credit creation must be treated as a national resource. The profits of which are retained by the people. The current debt-based system does not serve any country's interests.

Inflation –

Prices can fluctuate according to the laws of supply and demand. In a properly functioning market economy this helps allocate resources appropriately. When powerful players manipulate the market, that's when you get inflation and other negative outcomes. What we are seeing now has been caused by the stupid decisions of politicians and their governments. War in Ukraine and the COVID response have led to shortages ie decreased supply. Therefore, prices go up. Artificially low interest rates and money printing have led to increased demand. Therefore, prices go up.

This creates a perfect storm because some geniuses think you can make things better by not only printing more money but by forcing wages to go up. These will not lead to a genuine improvement in the standard of living for most people. A simple thought experiment clarifies the point.

Ohhhh look prices have gone up. Let's increase wages by 100% to help people afford more of the now too expensive goods and services - that our policies have directly and indirectly caused.

As you can see this will make it extremely difficult for employers to afford to pay their wages bill. Workers will be sacked and businesses will close. This is how you make things worse by causing a massive rise in unemployment and bankruptcies. This is the death spiral that turns a nation toward a recession. Actually, in the current situation - more likely - a once in a century depression.

Traditionally there are only two ways to genuinely improve your standard of living without causing inflation. By increasing your productivity in your current job or by increasing your skills and getting a better paying job.

Tricked you! There is one other way of increasing a peoples' wellbeing and standard of living. You will not see this anywhere else. The rulers are so afraid of this they will censor and suppress the information everywhere they can - even on social media. We will reveal it below. Keep reading my friends.

An Australian Republic –

Here is where we will reveal part of the information the rulers don't want you to think about and then call for. While the British Empire did bring much of value to a portion of its colonies it still remains one of the most brutal regimes to have imposed its will on many cultures and populations. Of course, from the Crown's point of view the ends justifies the means. As is the case with the remaining Empires it wanted to control as much of the world's people and resources as possible. The cruelty, misery and destruction this caused is untold especially in the "colonies." Australia's indigenous know

- as do the people of China and India. More about the Empire's modus operandi below.

Anthony Albanese's new Labor government has appointed Matt Thistlethwaite as the assistant Minister for the Republic.

The push for an Australian republic failed in 1999 because people didn't want the politicians' republic. Truth be told, we don't really need a King, Queen or any "head of State." Only Subjects have a head of State. Relentless propaganda has seen many in Britain learn to cherish their place as subjects.

By all means, Matt Thistlethwaite should assist with Australia cutting ties with the Crown and Britain but let's do it properly. If he does it well, he may assist Britain and other nations to do the same. It's time - not just here in Australia but in Scotland and other similarly affected regions of the world.

The new Republic must be one that sees Australians understand the importance of universal fundamental rights as well as the responsibilities that are required for the people to live in civilised freedom – here is a list >> Bill of Rights and Responsibilities

This type of Republic does not allow authoritarian rule from the Left, Right or anywhere else. It brings the power back to the people, and it is the only way to stop the gradual slide of Australia - and indeed the rest of the world - into a dystopian, cashless, authoritarian, technocratic, totalitarian, police/surveillance state.

Just to make it clear - BRN opposes authoritarian leaders in all nations. It is unacceptable: to arrest or kill journalists that expose government corruption or war crimes; harass political opponents; take bribes and donations from corporate players; manipulate citizens to suit the interests of the power centres and those that serve them. This applies equally to the USA, Britain, Russia, China and the others playing these geopolitical games.

What else does Matt Thistlethwaite need to do for Australia? He needs to bring home the bacon. We call it repatriation of the wealth. All British Crown and Royal Family holdings in Australia must come back to Australia. That means all Australian land, property, companies, and shareholdings held by those British entities comes back to the Commonwealth of Australia.

This repatriated wealth is the first step in building an Australian Sovereign Wealth Fund. Of course, the same should happen in other nations to assist them build back way better.

You may now understand why the elite wouldn't like this plan. A crisis has been caused by the elite and the people are not going to cop inflation, unemployment, austerity, hunger and poverty being imposed on large sections of our community and vulnerable people around the world. The jig is up - reforms in the interests of the people will come about one way or another. We prefer a peaceful approach. We also prefer real action that brings about real reform. It's not enough to moan about the problems and then let the elite impose their republic and their solutions. If you want to stop the Empire fleecing, controlling and exploiting you and your country then what is described here is quite possibly the only way to do it in time to stop a catastrophic loss of rights, freedoms and most likely lives - particularly if looming war and mass starvation are not averted.

By the way – just in case Matt is worried about how a corrupt or dysfunctional government could be sacked if we don't have a Head of State >> Citizen Initiated Referendum - yes, the people have the power. The linked description is a pdf of the BRN preferred model but we're happy to refine it if required.

Housing affordability –

BRN has covered this previously >> right here. The problem has gotten worse since the GFC with the elite's desperation to save the banking cartel. Asset bubble pumping was the order of the day. Low interest rates, and money printing has made owning a home impossible for a large portion of the population. Even renting is now difficult for many. Once the crash accelerates many people will lose their homes when the banks swoop in. Homelessness will skyrocket. People living in caravans and tents as well as rough on the streets are a sign of a nation in decline. As are the resulting rise in substance abuse, violence and mental illness.

The latest twist in NSW is that the Perrottet government is very keen to impose a land tax on the family home. It is being done gradually. First home buyers can soon opt out of stamp duty and pay a yearly land tax for the rest of their lives instead. Another brilliant plan is the government sharing the equity in your home by contributing to a buyer's purchase. As you can clearly see both these Federal and State programs are being used as yet another government plan to keep people buying overpriced housing - before the crash. Government trapping home buyers in this way is truly pathetic and an indicator of their true allegiances. All these government bright ideas serve banking interests.

The only way houses can become affordable again is if their prices would be allowed to fall. We think at least a 50% reduction is required. Irresponsible and excessive bank lending - as well as greed & stupidity - have fuelled this unsustainable property market. The Banking Act still contains the provision that allows the RBA to order the banks to reduce their lending that has led to an imbalance – ie a bubble – which Chifley put in the law. For some unknown reason the RBA just hasn't used it - they seem to have missed the boat on this. In a "correction" the RBA could support the banks to write down their balances on their mortgage loans, to match the new values.

We have proposed several policies to help. The easiest to put in place straight away is to stop all foreign purchases of Australian property. For Australian homes already owned by foreigners - if the property is empty, they will have to pay a tax of 10% of its value each year. In addition, predatory lending by banks must be stamped out.

Your home is your castle. You work hard to purchase it and you should not be subject to a yearly "rent" to continue living in it.

The reforms we detail here show that there is no need for either a Stamp Duty or a Land Tax. These have always been just one of the many ways Kings and Queens have fleeced their subjects. Remember the British window tax (1696 to 1851)?

Digital Bill of Rights -

The internet was created and funded initially by money stolen from American taxpayers by the U.S. Government - specifically the defence establishment. As such we can consider the internet a public good or utility owned by the people of America. Being a generous people, the Americans have practically gifted this marvel of technology to the world. It enables people from around the world to freely interact with each other in many ways.

As the Internet is a public utility, no single entity or grouping of powerful entities can exploit the resource in order to use it as a weapon of exploitation, control or surveillance. Powerful entities should be prohibited from using their position to monopolise the internet to create super-profits by harming and limiting competitors.

The internet can host various communication platforms. The people allow tech companies such as Google, Facebook and Twitter to place their platforms onto the internet. Of course, it would be quite reasonable for platforms of that size to be paying rent to the owners of the internet. Rent is far easier to collect than taxes.

The Digital Bargain – to use our internet the platforms owners must respect the people's rights.

Number one - is freedom of speech. A platform cannot eject or refuse access to any person just because they disagree with someone's political or social views. The internet is a conduit of communication. ISPs and Social Media platforms are not publishers of information and data. Think of phone lines. Would it be OK for a phone company to stop people communicating on their network just because they didn't agree with the communication or approve of the communicator?

There are many critical issues in this topic - including Surveillance, Bio-metric Data, Facial Recognition, Digital ID, Social Credit Score, App Attack eg phone apps that breach your fundamental rights to exploit you and your data, government transparency, Encryption, Net Neutrality, Data collection & usage, Privacy, Digital Money, Democracy.

Remember - Just because it can be done doesn't mean it should be done. All technological marvels can be used as tools of exploitation and control. You are not subjects. You have full control of your life. Just say no to abuses of your rights including your privacy. No to Central Bank Digital currency. No to facial recognition software. No to Social Credit scores.

You are in charge of your politicians

They are the ones you will be asking to make the changes described in this document. If they don't cooperate, march in the streets. Call for their sacking. To win this battle you need to take a principled stand, unite with your fellow travelers, and make it right for your country and its people.

Don't wait for your favourite politician or party to be elected. You need to lobby whoever is in power now to do what is required. Start with Matt Thistlethwaite and make sure any move toward a Republic includes critical rights, the establishment of a sovereign monetary system and the repatriation of our British held wealth to an Australian Sovereign wealth fund - email him now >> Matt.Thistlethwaite.MP@aph.gov.au / Phone - Canberra Office: (02) 6277 4840; Sydney Office: (02) 9349 6007

This is the best chance to end the age of exploitation and usher in the first age of civilised freedom.

What do we want?

Most of people's unhappiness and often their depression and anxieties come about because there is a disparity or mismatch between what they want and what they've got. Obviously if what you want is outlandish you are going to make life miserable for yourself but if we think about what people really need it is not that much. Perhaps this would be all that's required for most of us: a safe place to live; good food; reliable transport & other key infrastructure; enjoyable holidays and long weekends every year; time for hobbies, friends, family; a well resourced and effective healthcare system; a well functioning education system and of course - love.

These basic requirements definitely should not require a family to be earning two incomes and spending 60, 70, 80 hours or more in total in paid work. Often work that is totally unnecessary or even harmful to workers and customers or clients.

Stand – Unite - Make It Right! [SUMIR]

Just remember - the elite are fleecing you. They want you in debt, your children in debt and your country in debt. They want you all working as much as possible - Jobs - Jobs - Jobs; Work - Work - Work; Tax - Tax - Tax. They don't care at all if what you are doing is useful, needed or beneficial to anybody. They just want wealth and power concentrated in their hands and you exist as a registered asset to be exploited. The SUMIR program stops it. It helps get rid of soul-destroying bullshit jobs while dividing real jobs in such a way that most people could have a better standard of living. Without the theft of people's time and wealth they will be able to look after their needs with possibly half the paid work they are currently engaged in. This frees up people's time and ends the rat race which exploits most people. Sound good? Well it will only work out well if one other key thing is done. People must stop worrying about people who look different. The rulers love it when we are divided. Don't let it happen. A person's colour, religion, sex, life choices or other beliefs should not be a concern or issue. Get over it and focus on what does matter.

The key issues to attain your freedom and rights:

1. A Sovereign Wealth Fund

This sets up an investment pool or wealth fund consisting of resources and assets that serve the nation's citizens. Australia's wealth is its minerals, water and land - its resources and people. All of which has been sold off cheaply, exploited and destroyed in various ways. Step 1 also brings back home to the people the ill-gotten wealth that has been stolen from them over many years - ie it repatriates the Common Wealth.

2. A Sovereign Monetary System

This removes the ability of the private banking cartel to create money and credit via the debt-based system that currently is siphoning the wealth of nations. It is time to reintroduce a National Bank - perhaps starting with an Australian Postal Savings Bank. This is a critical structure required for the Sovereign Monetary system to function properly.

Powerful European and American banking interests have colluded with corrupt and often stupid politicians to set up a criminal finance system. Banking as we know it is organised crime on a grand scale. It is a counterfeiting operation that has seen the value of money slashed while keeping much of the world in poverty and many people in many countries working in debt servitude or as wage slaves.

3. A Citizenship Dividend

The components of which are: a basic income (BI); a citizenship participation payment (CPP - which will organically lead to a "job guarantee"); and a civilised society dividend (CSD). On top of this people will still be free to earn an income by providing valued goods and services to people near and far. This is by fair, open and honest trade - not phony manipulative "free" trade deals. Small businesses will have the paper chains that bind them removed. Power groups take advantage of outlandish laws and obligations to facilitate the fleecing of people trying to build a better life and community.

Without the first two components – any other type of "basic income" is unworkable. There is no point taxing workers more heavily, imposing harsh austerity measures to cut back government spending or increasing government debt to the private banking cartel in order to "afford" a regular and equal payment to everyone.

4. A Bill of fundamental rights (and responsibilities) along with the ability for citizens to initiate a referendum or recall.

5. Ending the battle of Empires enables the war machine to be shut down. War is big business. The profits and corruption in the industry are mind boggling. Peace is good for you and your family - not so good for the masters of war.

It's not that hard. Just make designing, manufacturing, using and investing in weapons of mass destruction a crime against humanity. If the UN and associated agencies had any intention at all of serving the interests of peace this would have been sorted by now.

Politicians that work against Empire and for their people can and must push for peace.

For more details see the Stand-Unite-Make It Right (SUMIR) series of articles linked below. Also below some articles regarding the material discussed in this article.

A brief history of the Empire

The British Empire - Pre and post WW2. It has been said that the Empire continues with British brains and American brawn ..... but both nations prefer if it is the blood of other peoples (trying to live) in puppet states that is shed - often in proxy wars.

Please consider - it is not the citizens of the "West" that benefit from these wars and interventions. It is the rulers at the top of the tree. They want to maintain the power and wealth that they have stolen and accumulated over centuries. The rulers give you the illusion of freedom and democracy. They throw just enough crumbs at you to stop an uprising. They use propaganda and other tools of psychological manipulation to keep you compliant. It is time to withhold your consent to being ruled in this manner. Demand - Peace, Freedom and Justice
